WASHINGTON (Reuters) - President Donald Trump said on Friday he would be willing to shut down the U.S. government to get border wall funding but would not do so until after November's midterm congressional elections, putting his signature legislative pledge before voters. Trump, speaking in the Oval Office, said on Twitter that he was going to give a "full and complete" border security package to Congress later this year but he would not sign a spending bill that does not contain money for the wall. "If the Democrats do not give us the votes for Border Security, which includes the Wall, then we will close down the Southern Border. Congress must act now!" Trump wrote. Until the midterm elections, when voters choose members of Congress, Trump's strategy is not clear. But some Republicans have already begun to question whether they can stick to his fiscal 2018 spending bill and defy their Democratic rivals by refusing to allow funding for the wall to pass. Such an impasse could force a partial shutdown of the federal government, the nation's first since 2013, after which Trump would attempt to peel away Democratic support with his signature in his re-election campaign. Trump also dangled the prospect of declaring a national emergency, a step that would sidestep Congress and allow him to appropriate funds for the border wall as he seeks to fulfill a longtime campaign promise. "I may very well do it. I may!" Trump said, adding that his decision would be "a very easy one." "It's a very easy decision for me to make," the president added, saying that a shutdown "is a very easy solution." 'THIS IS WRONG' Trump's comments drew outrage from Democrats and concern among Republicans. Even some of

"It's absolutely ingenious, a game in which you actually feel like a hero by picking, creating, and using brand-new weapons, armor, and other things. The game's main features shine through in their entirety, and even smaller details, such as the addition of an online feature, also greatly enhance the game. It's a game that's easy to get into, it's fun, and it's completely different." Dengeki Online "By embracing the fantasy genre with bright colors, and making it a live, heart-stopping adventure, you can really enjoy the game. It's the kind of action fantasy game that you simply have to play." Kadokawa Shoten "...even though the game is completely different from other adventure games, it has its own unique charms and has an appealing atmosphere. In fact, I would go so far as to say it's a game that anyone can enjoy." Tokyo Game Planet "...every element of the game is designed with great care and attention, and it really doesn't matter if you're into fantasy RPGs or action RPGs. If you're looking for a new experience, if you're looking to hear the distant rumbling of drums from the distant past, then I strongly recommend you check out the game, Tarnished Chronicles." Kadokawa Shoten "The extent to which this game is different from other fantasy action RPGs is incredible. It's a game where you just pick up the items you find and use them to fight and explore the world. You can also create a wide variety of weapons and items, and there are no limitations to the way you use those. The story, the characters, and the world are also well-done. It's a pretty astounding game, which I think anyone should definitely check out." Dengeki Online "...a great game that really does a great job of living up to its name. Tarnished Chronicles is a grand fantasy adventure that you can play with your friends, and it's a big step forward for games in the genre.
